

The Horse Who Wanted to Be a Unicorn

A Fairy Tale Written and Illustrated by the EKAM and EKPM
Hogarth Kids

Once upon a time there was a horse who wanted to be a unicorn.

The other horses laughed at her.
They said, "You aren't a unicorn. You are a baby pony."

The little horse's name was Rosie Rachel. She was sad because the other horses were mean to her.

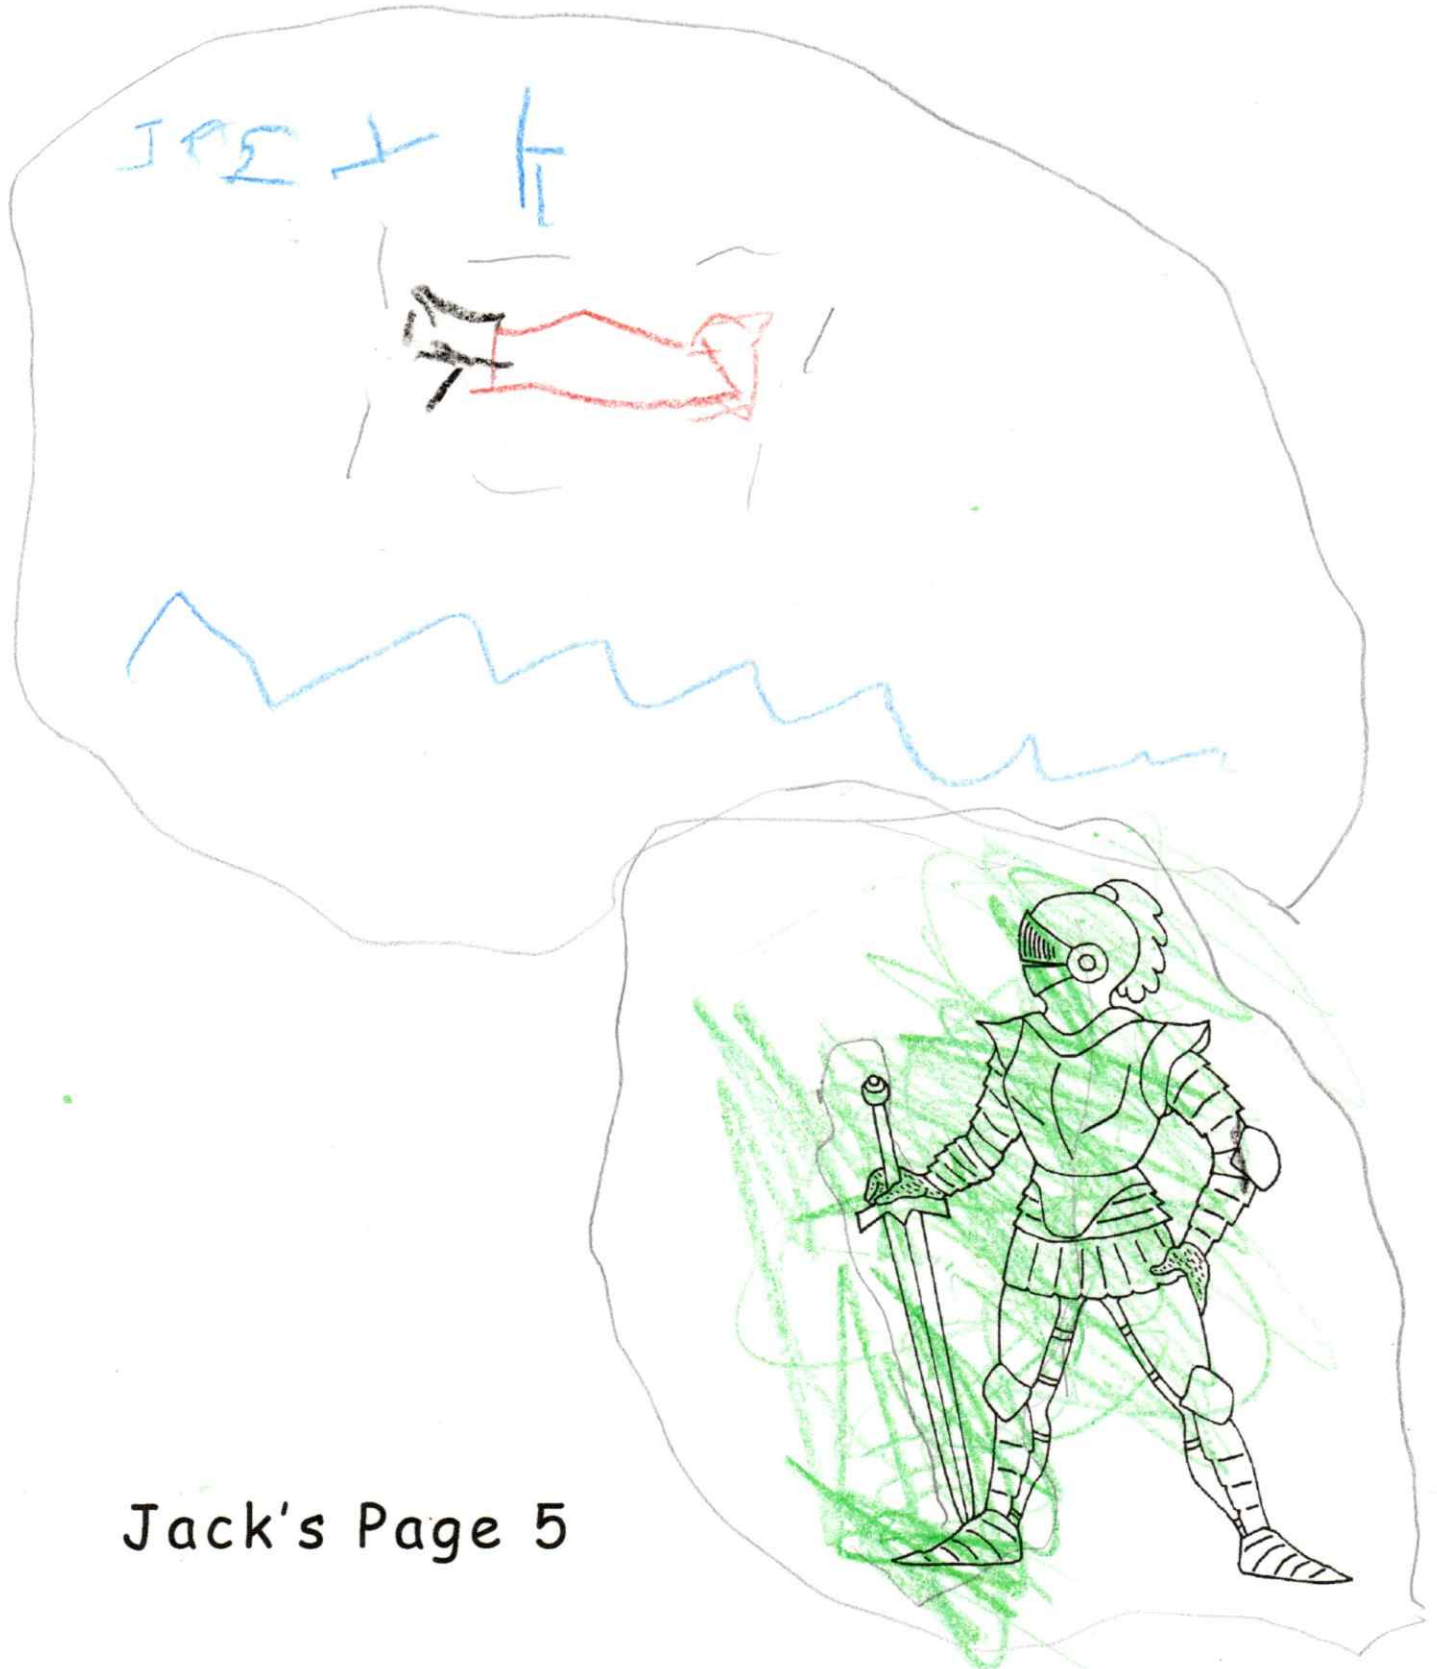

She runned away and she got in the water. She met a mermaid. The mermaid said, "Don't be sad. My fairy godmother will help you."

The mermaid was in a trap in the water. The knight put on his armor and he swam to get the mermaid.

The knight was able to get it out of the trap to save the princess mermaid.

The knight turned into a horse, then a bad mermaid trapped him.

Another knight came to help him. He broke the trap and the horse-knight got out. He went to someone who could change him back into a knight. It was a fairy godmother.

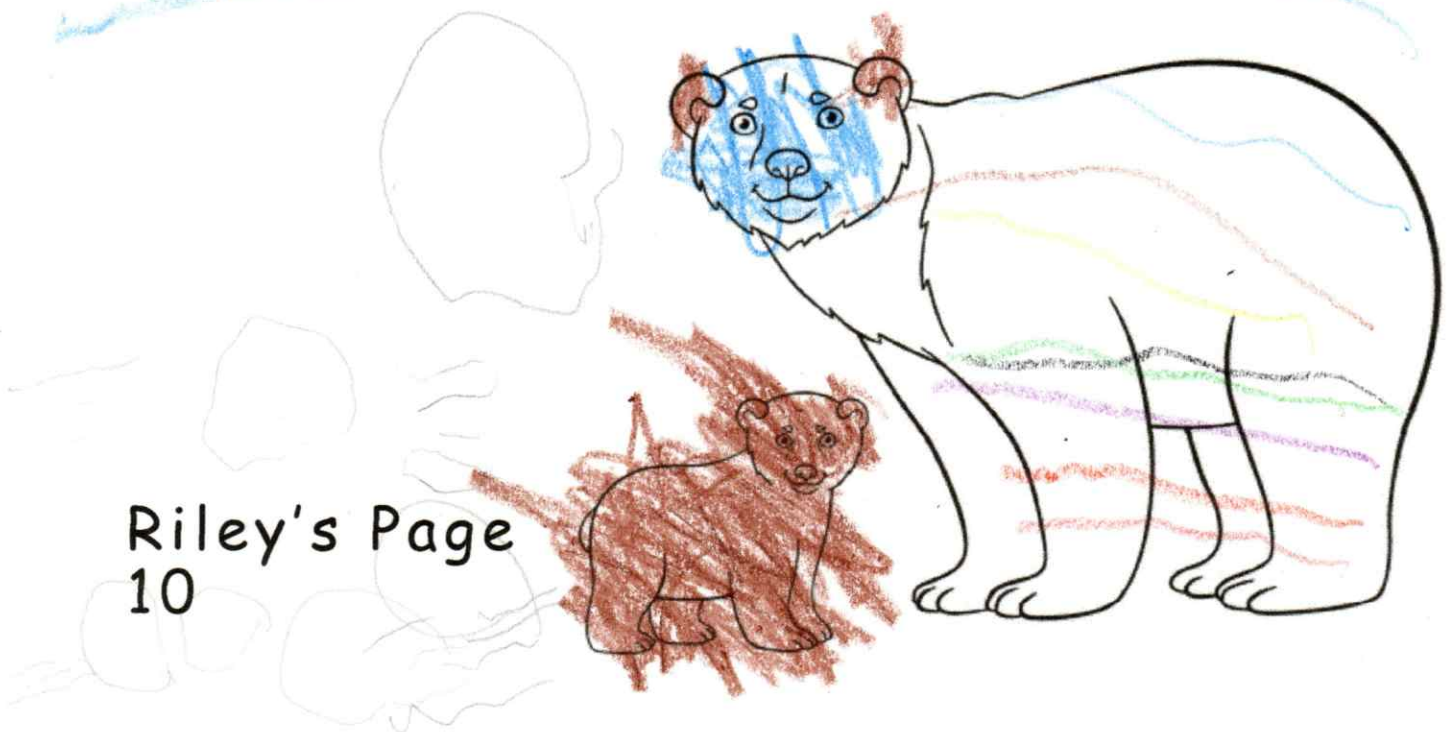

The horse-knight went on a freight train and went to the freight station. He took 99 horses to a horse station and then they drove some more to another freight station. In 29 minutes they got to the fairy godmother and then he was back into a knight.

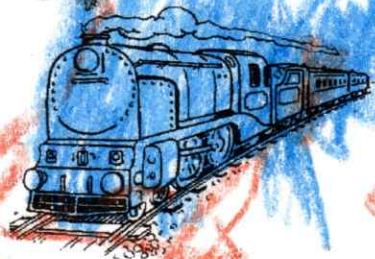

Then the knight turned into a bear because he can turn into anything. He was a good bear, and he tried to find his mom. He was in the woods and his mom was in the woods and he found her.

An evil gnome came on a freight train. He jumped out of the train when it was moving. There was another evil gnome there. They just fight trees.

The wizard made a potion for the bear so the bear could turn back into a knight. The potion tasted like vanilla ice cream. The bear drank all the ice cream potion up. He turned back into a knight.

The knight goes into the woods and he looks for dangerous adventures. He finds three. He found a dragon, and a fire on someone's house, and he found a bear heading right to him. He tried to fight all of them at once, but he couldn't. There was too much stuff. He looked for magic, but everywhere he looked he couldn't find it, but then he remembered. When he was a little kid someone told him that you have any power in your heart only if you believe.

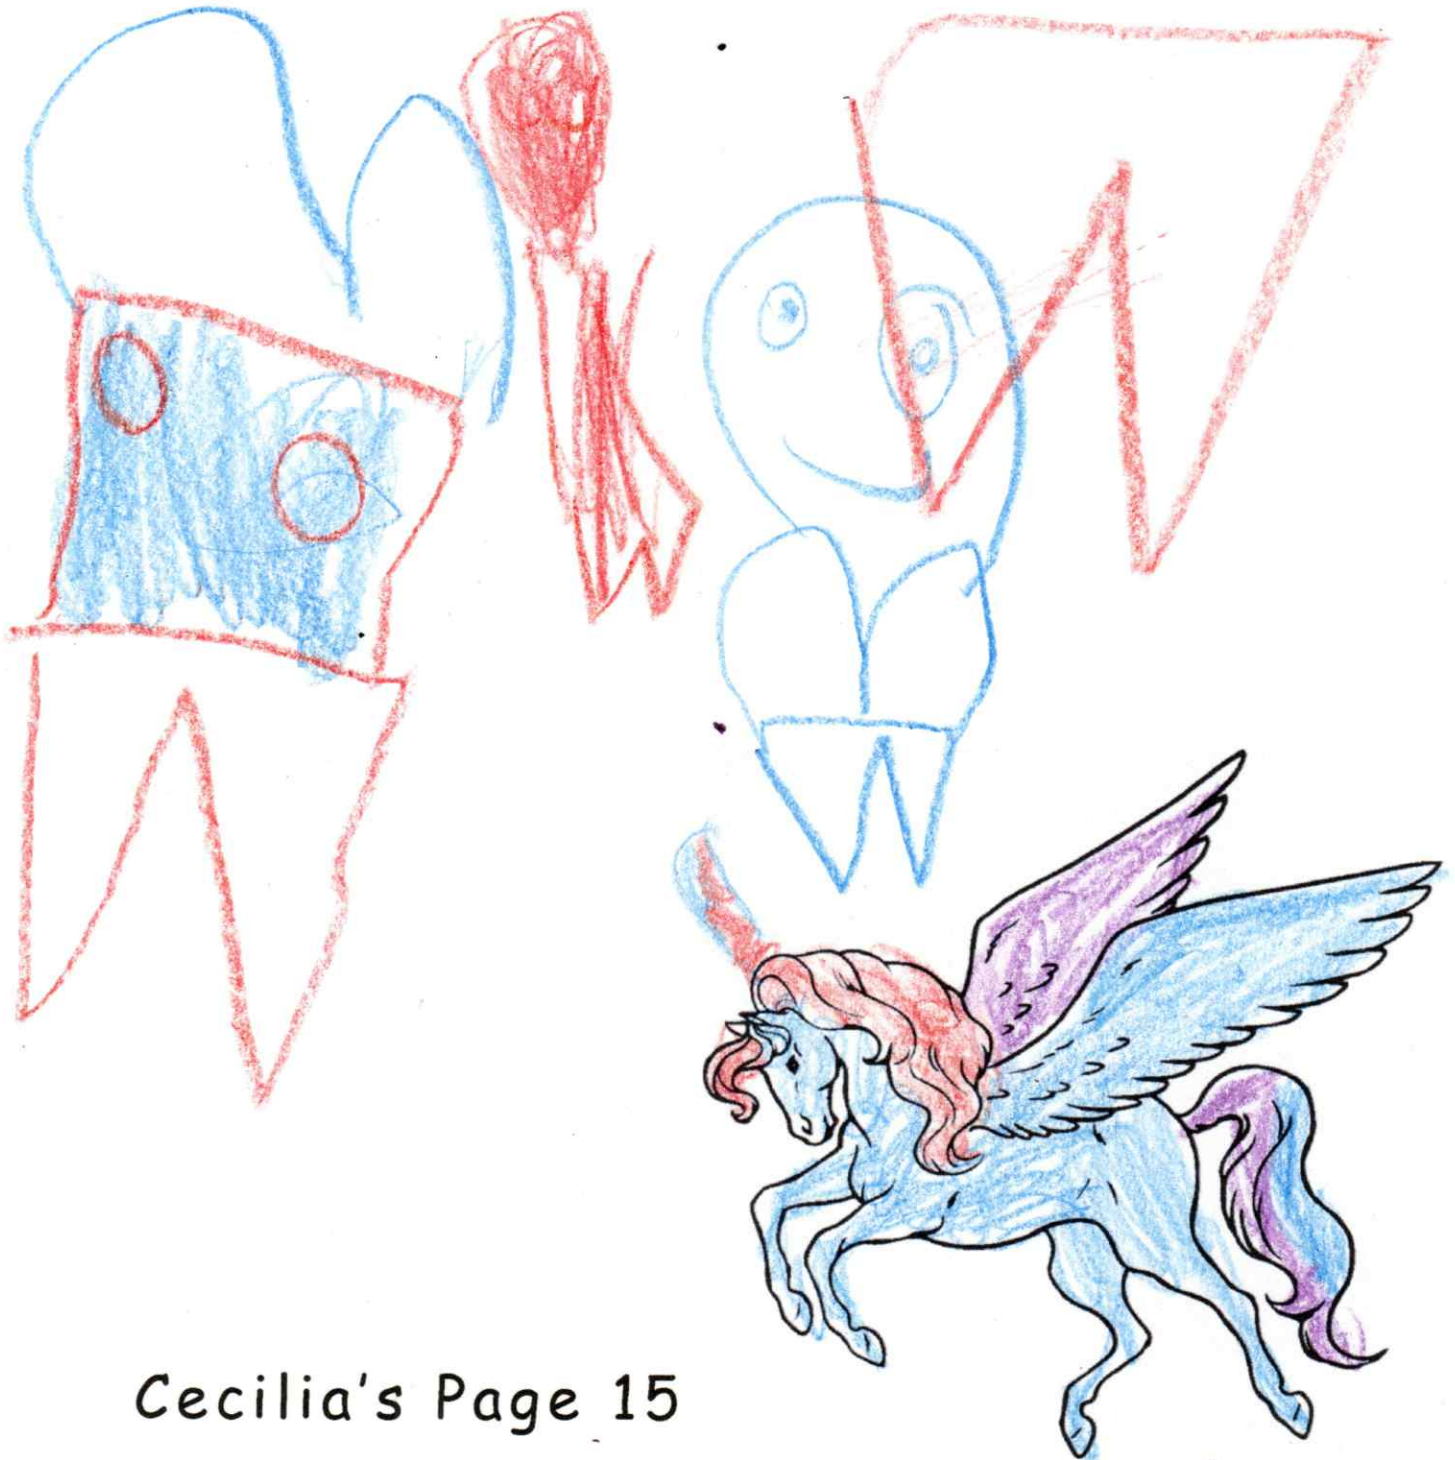

The dragon was a bad guy. He put fire out of his mouth. The knight put the fire out.

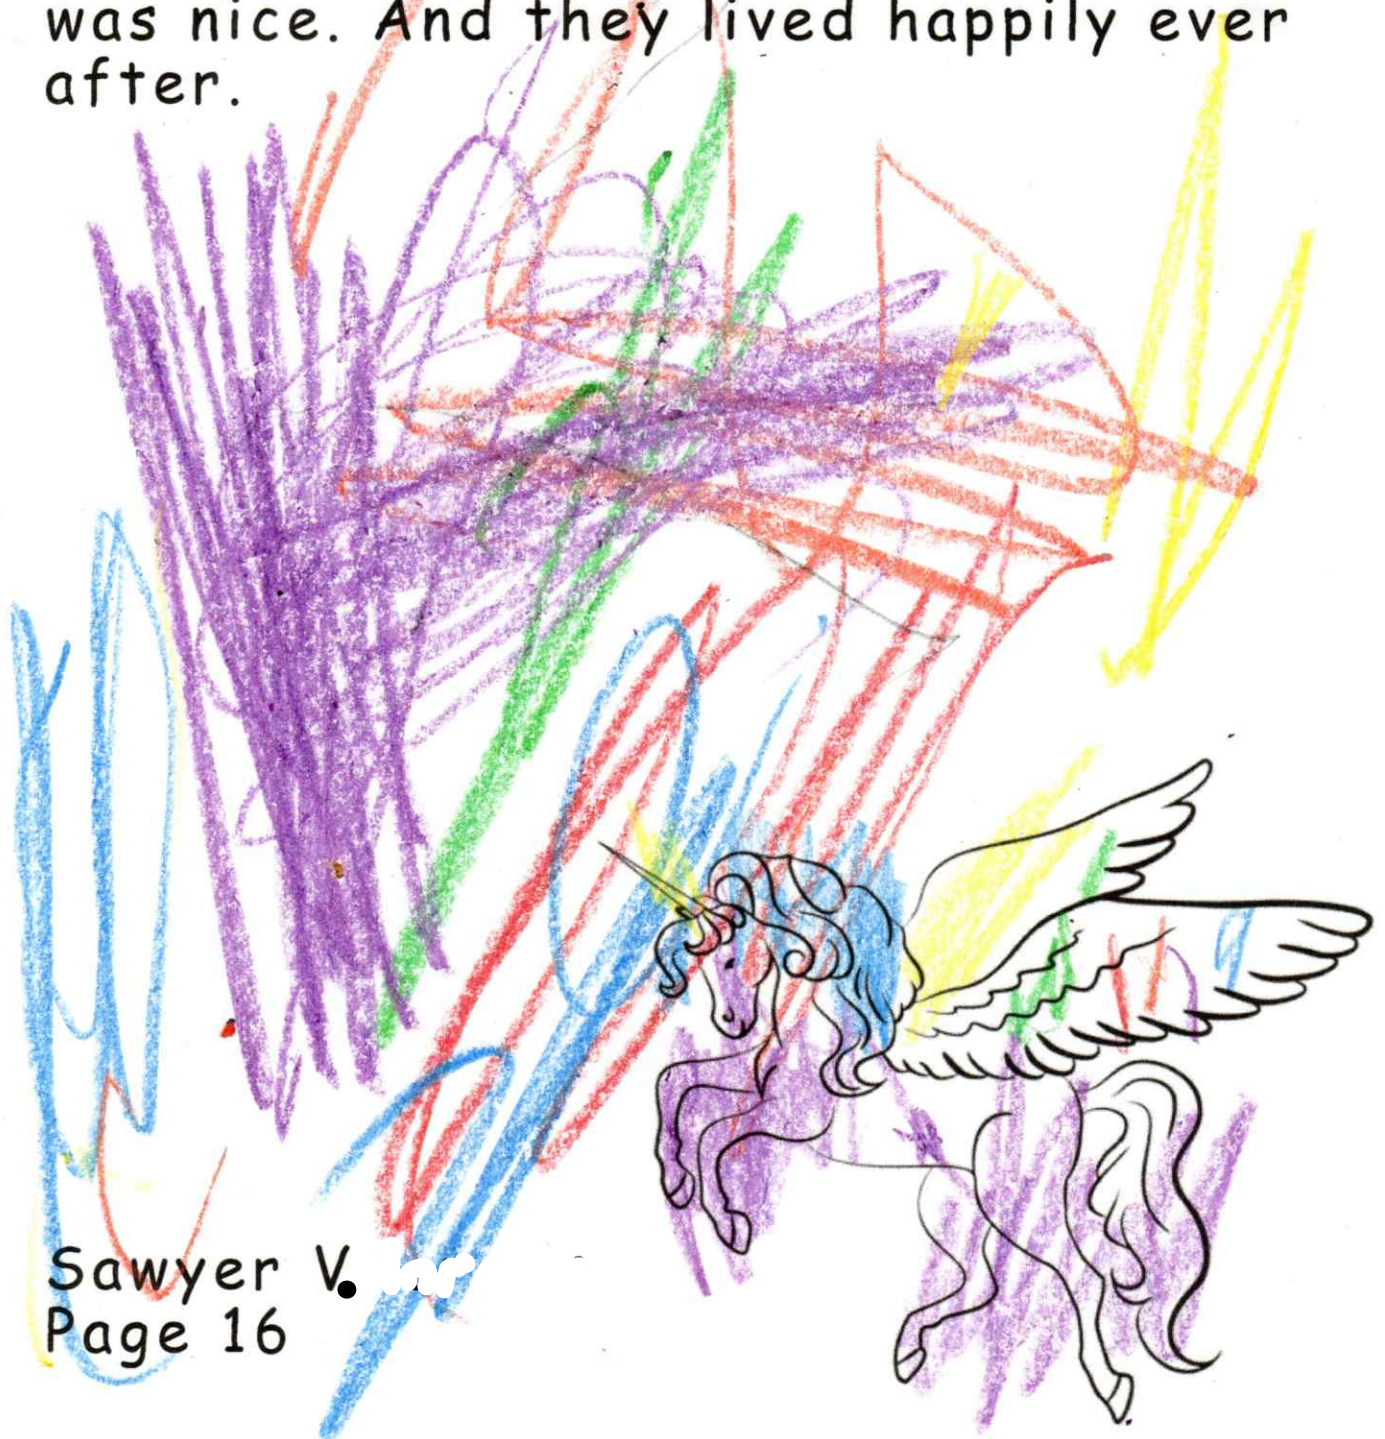

The horse who wanted to be a unicorn turns into a sky horse. It can fly out of the water. It flaps its wings. All the other horses that were mean to Rosie Rachel saw her in the sky. They started to be nice to her.

Rosie Rachel looked down and she saw her mean sister. She flied down to her and she hopped on her back and she flew her up to the sky then she took her down to a lake and they splash in the lake and they both turned into unicorns. Now her sister was nice. And they lived happily ever after.
